November is Arkansas Soybean Month

As we wrap up October, we can’t help but feel excited about what November has in store for us. Because of the significant economic contributions of the soybean industry in Arkansas, Governor Asa Hutchinson once again proclaimed November as Arkansas Soybean Month. As soybean producers take to the fields for harvest season, we’re celebrating all month the good work of our growers and the benefits of their crops. Watch this video to learn about the history of soybeans in Arkansas and the impact of soybeans on state and national economies.
